The Game of Bowls.

New Orleans Times-Democrat. The old game of bowls-a very ancient pastime, indeed, since Sir Walter Raleigh speaks of having played it, and his friends were interrupted during a game by the news that the Spanish Armada had hove in sight-is coming into fashion again. It is layed on lawns or on simulated green turf, and requires hollow rounds to catch the balls, and the balls themselves. Bowls ing, as it does, to the era of snuff and courtplaster, well suited to portly, middle and old age, though modern old age makes at golf, biffs at tetherball, without taking nto account such details as years at all. With bowls as the fashion, we may expect the young to adopt the slow graces of the minuet and other accomplishments of the period of sacque and wig, farthingale and knee breeches, when "the quality" dined at 3 in the afternoon and drank its dish of tea or negus later in a summer house till it should be cool enough for "bowls" in the evening. Those times are tremendously picturesque to think about, but not so alluring when you find yourself in a house without hot and cold modern attachments. These are the times!

"Unless you are in the business," he said as he slowly sipped his Scotch high-ball with a party of New York wholesalers, "let me say that you will find it hard to realize the aggregate amount customers of the 'tasting' kind-I do not now so much refer to legitimate tasters who sample butter and cheese-cost a concern like mine, and much of this tasting is nothing but bare-faced pilfering.

"Not to speak of the articles these people take-the offenders are generally women, I am sorry to say-the articles such as raisins, nuts, biscuits, a grape or two here and a strawberry there, hundreds and hundreds of them will half covertly help themselves to a peach, an apricot or a blood orange, and when they have several children with them all scattered about a shop and doing the same thing the matter becomes serious. It happens in scores of cases that the articles taken in this way exceed the value of those bought by fourfold. If a word is spoken to these people their indignation, mock or real, is a sight; nothing can exceed their effrontery. "It has become a serious question-one that is going to be debated with others ere long by West End tradesmen-for it is calculated that we lose a total of many, many thousands of pounds a year by these tasters. We regard women who deliberately allow their children to take expensive fruits The cars met on a charp curve while runin this way and then refuse to pay as al-most creating a tendency to shop-lifting."

President National League of Barbers,
No. 804 Cherry St.

It is a new shaving cream which takes the place of shaving soap. It is pure as purity, clean, smooth, delightful. There is nothing in it that will not actually help the skin to be soft and smooth.

To use: Squeeze out as much as the size of a small bean directly on the chin, then work it up with the brush, using very little water at first; it lathers almost instantly and gets thicker and heavier as you proceed. Do not rub in. It is better to allow the lather to remain on the face a few minutes before using the razor. It will not dry. CREAM FOAM is also an excellent article for a shampoo. It will cleanse the scalp without injuring the hair. Very little is required to make a big foam. Cream Foam is put up in collapsible tubes, containing enough for 100 shaves at 25 cents. Try Coke Cream Foam and you will never use soap for shaving again. If yourdruggist or barber does not keep it, we will forward it to any part of the world upon receipt of the price in currency or postage stamps. To avoid contagious diseases insist upon your barber using only Cream Foam on your face.

Police Get Money, Dice and Coats, but Most of Gamblers Escape.

Saturday night crap shooting was the cause of four negroes spending last night in the police station. The police had received information that a game was in progress at 405 North Senate avenue. Accordingly Sergeant Schroeder, with Patrolmen Tomlinson, Bolen, Milam and Smith, made their appearance at Senate and Indiana avenues about 11:30 o'clock. They saw a negro standing at the first alley north of Vermont street. As the negro saw the policemen approaching he ran, but was stopped short by Sergeant Schroeder. He sent the remainder of the policemen into Entrance at first was rather hard to gain. As Bolen opened the back door a loud noise could be heard all over the building. A dash was made for the inside, but most of the gamblers had gone. In leaving they broke window sashes and doors. Moses Gaddey was arrested on the charge of keeping a gambling house, while David Simpson, Emmet Williams and Thomas Mc-Fadden, all colored, were arrested on the charge of visiting. The police got some money, dice and several coats. OLA HAYDEN TROUBLED.

In Germany the supply of university educated men is said to be so much in excess of the demand as to create a somewhat serious problem. With the thousands of young men which our own colleges are turning out every year, one cannot help wondering where in the world all are to find employment suited alike to their taste and training. That all do not succeed in finding the kind of work for which they are especially prepared is sometimes pathetically evident. One day last week, while a Broadway cable car was waiting at Fiftieth street for the signal to start on its downtown trip again, a passenger who boarded the car was somewhat surprised to see the motorman sitting in one corner deeply absorbed in a book of Greek verse, Now, for Congress to-day by the Eleventh dis- | as Greek verse or even Greek prose is not trict Republican convention. It pays me $2 a day and keeps me from starvation-and insanity, too," he muttered, as the signal sounded and he strode out to the front platform with the little book of Greek verse in his hip pocket. "I wonder," thought the passenger to himself as the car glided on downtown-"I wonder if a knowledge of Greek makes one a better motorman."

THE PASSING OF REUBEN.

The Countryman of the Funny Papers Not to Be Found.

Chicago Evening Post. What has become of Reuben? Where are to be seen his lank visage fringed with scrubby beard, his suspenders tied with twine, his carpet sack and linen fuster? You lofter along the crowded downtown thoroughfares and watch in vain for the wiry-framed, innocent-eyed figure. Not one of the hurrying throng carries a carpet sack. Not one cranes his neck in an effort

Has Reuben been so warned that he will not leave the farm? No, for every incoming train brings Reuben to town. He comes to give his wife a good time on her semi-annual shopping trip, to attend a "thrashermen's convention," or to see about subdividing some acres he used to work near the city limits. He wears a coat that, if not in the latest cut, is at least unobtrusive. He carries a bag that, if guiltess of the labels of the traveled, is the conventional dress-suit case as to shape. He has his Chicago banker and his Chicago lawyer - probably school friends - with whom he lunches and dines, apparently undisturbed by the stir of lights and music. But Reuben has vanished, too, from the country station, the shady lanes far from raveled roads, from the farm itself. He has gone and taken his picturesque language with him. Country fair grounds are crowded as ever, but the talk one hears, while quite as uncivilized, is the barbarity of the pavement and not of the dusty road. Slang whose picturesqueness depends on a background of alleys and brick walls seems strangely out of place among elderberry thickets, bramble bushes and rag weed. Reuben no longer chews a bit of timothy. as he leans against a picturesque fence, nor sits aloft like an admiral aboard his flagship as he goes through billows of Alas, Reuben has indeed left us, to smile

Eldorado (Kan.) Republican. When the end of a Kansas ear of corn points eastward instead of heavenward it's sign-a dead sure sign-and it is then that the farmer goes to the back room of the bank and begins to talk about money. Farmers and stockmen from all over the county are coming in every day and are making arrangements with the banks for money to buy cattle and hogs-to turn the new corn crop into beef and pork-which if not in sight, is close on to it; and all this means business, and lots of it.
